WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Quarterly returns indicated that Great Britain's article would be sold for considerably less than 200,000 this year compared with 400,000 in 1929.

The U.S. National Geographic Society has announced it has granted $25,000 to the Canadian Committee for the Arctic Expedition, which is headed by Commander Richard E. Byrd for his Antarctic expedition. The society already has granted $25,000.

An international conference looking toward regulation of the fishing industry of the Canadian coast may be called in August next year, the Canadian Commissioner of Fisheries, at Washington, it is feared.

Advancement of millions of dollars for construction of new cruisers and submarines will be considered by the U.S. House Appropriations Committee in January, regardless of the naval limitation conference beginning in London, England, that month.

Former Governor Alfred H. Smith of New York has revealed that the New Empire State building which his company is to erect on the site of the old Waldorf-Astoria hotel, will tower 85 stories into the air, thus soaring to a height of any other structure in the world.

Brazil has agreed to accept a large number of the Canadian surplus of refugees, some of whom are already in Germany, while others are awaiting transport to leave Brazil. The peasants will be given refuge in South America, where there is a number of German settlements.

Among the candidates whose names have been before the Nobel Peace prize is that of Frank B. Kellogg, former United States ambassador to Paris and co-winner with Foreign Minister Briand in bringing about the famous Kellogg-Briand agreement of war pact.

At the request of the Canadian government has addressed an appeal both to the League of Nations and to individual signatures of the Canadian peace pact to take steps toward "inviting" the Russian territory. The League of Nations has taken a deliberate violation of the war-pact war.

Build Cottages For Britishers

Canadian National Railways Has Plan To Help New Settlers

The scheme of building cottages for immigrant families came to Canada to settle on the land is being met, to meet needs at least, by the offer of the Canadian National Railways to build cottages for the British at various points on the prairies so that the new arrivals may secure a home at a nominal cost of three dollars a month. This offer has been approved by the Overseas Settlements Board of the British Government.

British people, forming the bulk of the immigrant life into Canada, often suffer because they are unprepared to cope with the conditions of the farming districts of the Dominion, which are so different from those prevailing in the Old Country. On the other hand, immigrants from Europe, especially the northern parts of Europe, are accustomed, even before they embark for the voyage overseas, to the mildness and rigors of the life which settlement has left much of the countryside.

The cottages to be built by the Canadian National in the three prairie provinces will stand on a cleared plot of land averaging from one half to one acre in extent. They will be served by good roads, and as near as possible to the local market place and schools. They will be furnished with stoves and simple furniture.

It is understood that the families will occupy the cottages only during their first year in Canada, while they are engaged in preliminary experience in farming conditions.

Then Of Western Lakes Park The prairie flora and the mountain ferns meet in Waterton Lakes National Park in the southwest corner of the province of Alberta. Here, in the valleys, and on the lower slopes of the Rocky Mountains, wild flowers bloom in May and June. In June the higher peaks are covered with delicate blossoms of every hue.

A new and hitherto unknown route across the Rocky Mountains has been discovered through a pass into British Columbia over the western boundary of Jasper Park, Alberta.

Fewer Forest Fires

Loss in Canada Last Summer Not So Great as Former Years

Loss of timber by forest fires in the past summer was comparatively low. By the end of September, British Columbia had 2,011 outbreaks, of these half had been in the southern interior where the hazard for some time has been extreme. In the prairie provinces the area burned has been high, and it is feared that the losses will be found to be serious. In Ontario the amount of the country that has been burned is reported as surprisingly low, that is, in the five districts which have been within the limit of possible protection, not including the northwestern. In Quebec, where the losses are probably below normal. In the Maritimes, where the hazard has been higher than in many years, the losses again are comparatively low.

The Scientific Fisherman

Carries Thermometer When Going After Certain Kinds Of Fish

The fisherman of today writes "Looker-On" in the London Daily Chronicle, in describing of an advertisement when compared with his prototype of a few decades ago, for he now carries a thermometer when going to fish. It has been proved that certain fish are more active at certain temperatures, hence if the nature of the water is known preparations can be made to meet the kind of catch that is expected. Good, for example, have a preference for water of 52 degrees, and from near the coasts of Newfoundland and Labrador, the most popular of the Dominion's fishery, enormous quantities of these fish have been caught.

Newest National Park

Has Become Popular

Over Ten Thousand Tourists Visited Prince Albert Park This Year

The opening of the newest National Park, the most recent addition to the system of recreational reserves administered by the National Parks of Canada Branch of the Department of the Interior, has been a success. Although only established for a little more than two years it has already built up a reputation which is evidence that it will soon become one of the most popular of the Dominion's playgrounds. Until its establishment, few people outside of the province had heard any conception of the rich recreational resources of Saskatchewan, a province whose name has been synonymous with vast expanses of golden grain and busy elevators. Last year, although the park had not been opened until August 10, and those who came had to bring with them camping outfit and supplies, over 5,000 people motored the twenty miles from the city of Prince Albert to the park. This year the total number of visitors exceeded 10,000 and it is interesting to note that registrations included cars from all the provinces of Canada, as well as practically every part of the United States, showing the reputation which this interesting section of the country has already gained among nature lovers.

An elf in an airplane landing has been laid out and already several transatlantic flyers have landed in the park. In view of the rapid increase in the use of airplanes it seems not unlikely that this may soon become a regular means of access to the park and that the reserve may also be a starting point for flights to regions in the far north.

He walked slowly toward her. Yes, that was the same old battered instrument; he had composed some of his early hits while sitting in front of it. Without thinking, he ran his hands glidingly up and down the keys. What fingers! They were stiff, grimy, and aged, sore. They played across the keys with a kind of desperate, unfeeling accuracy. He had played like that many days. They had danced, yes, in the old days they had danced, up and down the scale in nimble ease. He looked up, hearing a faint sound. And turned his head. Grace stood in the doorway.

Grace had entered as quietly as a cat. She waited a moment before she saw her, for she knew that in that flash second her intuition might give her a clue as to the best way to proceed with him. Now, as she stared up at her with startled eyes, his really pitiable condition was actually revealed. She answered his stare with an expression of tender sympathy.

Soviets Pass Draft Law

Plans Refusing To Return To Country On Call Are Declared Outlaws

Hereafter Soviet Citizens working abroad who may refuse by the summons of their government to return to Russia will be added guilty of treason. When finally sent into custody they will be sent prison and shot within 24 hours if identity is established.

This new measure was taken by the central executive committee of Soviet Union in the light of the refusal of M. Plesodovsky, of Soviet embassy at Paris, to return Moscow to face trial on charges of espionage.

The new decree is retroactive and means that all such Soviet citizens will be classed as outlaws and deserters and as enemies of the workers

Small Plane Remarkably Steady Even In Strong Wind

A airplane fitted with four windplanes, which revolve, recently made a tour of Europe, and landed at Rome, England. Although there was a fairly strong wind, it was remarkably steady in its flight. The plane was piloted by M. Elton, of London. When flying over Lymington, it made several times, and eventually descended to a height of about 100 feet, making a per-
